

Two weeks of music making and fun.

Improve your playing by learning how to listen to one another in a chamber music setting.

Have fun learning Rhythm through movement and dance games in the style of Delcroze Eurhythmics.

Learn Pitch Recognition and choral singing using Kodaly and Solfege to improve your singing and instrumental playing.

Grow your Music Appreciation by hearing faculty perform a wide range of music from baroque through classical and modern popular and folk music.

Discover how the music you enjoy and listen to today is part of a larger tradition we all share.

Receive private lessons and ensemble training from top level professional musicians from around the New York City area.

For ensembles, students are grouped according to level and interest. They then receive individual attention from our faculty!

Join us for two weeks of music making and fun in a beautiful setting in the heart of Bronxville. Days consist of two parts with a lunch break in between. Morning classes explore music in a fun environment.. Students will play games which will enhance their ability to listen to one another in a chamber music setting. There are three areas that will be focused upon: 1) Rhythm- having solid foundation of rhythm is central to an ability to play music with other people. Movement and dance games in the style of Delcroze Eurhythmics will give kids a window into the art of rhythm. 2) Pitch Recognition- and choral singing- One's ability to recognize pitch and accurately sing back is a skill applicable to all musicians. No matter your instrument a keen awareness of pitch and harmony will strengthen their instrumental playing and ensemble skills. Kodaly and Solfege singing will be addressed and applied to several choral works that kids will perform at the end of the program along with their smaller group projects. 3) Music Appreciation- Kids will be introduced to a swath of music spanning 300 years and covering everything from baroque music through classical composers and then settling on popular and folk music of the last 50 years. Students will learn to appreciate how music they enjoy and listen to today is part of a larger tradition we all share. This element of morning classes includes faculty performances and engaging listening activities!

The second half of the day is devoted to private lessons and ensemble training. Students are grouped according to level and interest. They then receive individual attention from our faculty which features top level professional musicians from around the New York City Area!
